How does being a Friend help the Library fulfill its mission to the Community?

 A Friend of the Hudson Library can contribute funds to assist the Library in acquiring essential materials for its service to the public.

 A Friend can also contribute volunteer hours to the bookstore for sorting and selling donated items. These heavily discounted books and audiovisual materials allow:

- Children to bring home their own books;
- Adults to find classic stories to modern fiction;
- Travelers, cooks, and historians to add to their collection; and
- Professionals to find unexpected treasures on the shelves.

 Friends can collaborate on initiatives sponsored by the library; of special interest are programs encouraging children to read.

Executive Library Director of the Hudson Library and Historical Society, Leslie Polott, believes that “the dedicated members of the Friends of the Hudson Library play an essential role in supporting the Library’s mission to enrich and transform lives.”
