

Hudson Library and Historical Society

Public Behavior in Library Policy

Adopted 12/2013

I. Statement of Policy:

The Hudson Library and Historical Society is committed to ensuring that its customers' Library experience is positive and free from safety concerns. To achieve that end, the Library requires users be engaged in activities associated with the use of the facility and its services. Disruptive behaviors can have a chilling effect and will not be tolerated. Library users who violate this policy may be subject to suspension of their Library privileges, be barred from the Library and/or face legal action.

II. Regulation:

In situations where the Library feels the health, safety or security of its users or employees is threatened, staff may take any and all appropriate measures including, but not limited to, calling the police for assistance to resolve the situation.

Library staff may ask a user to leave the premises with or without warning, depending upon the severity of the offense. Library staff may also exclude a user from the Hudson Library. If the seriousness of the offense requires a suspension, the user will be notified by registered mail. Any user whose Library privileges are suspended under these rules has a right to appeal such action. In such instances the Library Director will review the appeal and will render a decision within a reasonable time frame.
